(1) Smart meters are not UL Certified. Shouldn't there be clearly written statement on utility bills that claim utility companies are liable for fires, appliance malfunction + medical device malfunctions caused by smart meters.

(2) I've been paying the monthly charges to keep my analog meter. I came home from vacation and found that DTE had installed a smart meter. My wife complained to me that her ears are ringing and she had to leave the house. I didn't make a connection to the smart meter until several days later. There are complaints nationwide of tens of 100's of people reporting symptoms of headaches, sleep problems, ear ringing, fatigue focus difficulties and statistically abnormal reoccurences of cancer. We are talking about health risks + issues. In addition to other things (go to #1)
