

Michigan Academy of Family Physicians
Testimony before the House Health Policy Committee on House Bills 4274 and 4275
February 26, 2013

Good morning. Thank you Chairwoman Haines and members of the House Health Policy committee for the opportunity to speak to you today.

This testimony is being submitted today on behalf of the Michigan Academy of Family Physicians, the state's largest physician specialty association. Representing over 3,000 members, the Academy's mission is to promote excellence in health care and the betterment of the health of the citizens of Michigan. We are here to testify in support of House Bills 4274 and 4275, which would require the development of a standard prior authorization form for prescription drugs benefits. These bills would help mitigate some of the unnecessary administrative burdens that are placed on family physicians every day.

While many regulations, like prior authorization, are well-intentioned they are often prone to unforeseeable consequences, many of which place unfunded mandates on physicians and the medical practice businesses that employ them. Because family physicians provide a broad range of healthcare services to Medicare, Medicaid, and private insurance patients and rely heavily on their personal relationships and direct interactions, many of these regulations are particularly onerous for them. Creating a standard prior authorization form for all insurers will help alleviate the unnecessary complexity of having to determine whether prior authorization is required, which form to use and what data is required. This frees up more time for the physician to do what they do best – care for patients.

Consider the fact that chronic diseases consume a large percentage of our nation's overall health care spending. As we transform the health care delivery model and pursue payment methodologies that reward outcomes over volume, freeing up more time for physicians to discuss personal wellness and chronic disease management will become ever more critical.

In Michigan, we are already experiencing a physician workforce shortage. As more individuals become eligible for insurance coverage under the Affordable Care Act, physicians will only face increased demand to see more patients on a daily basis.

In light of these challenges, we must aggressively pursue commonsense reforms that help streamline administrative processes so that physicians spend less time doing paperwork and more time with patients. These bills do just that. They represent the simple changes we can make now where all parties can find common ground. I request that you thoughtfully consider our testimony in support of these bills and pass them expeditiously.

Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. I am happy to answer any questions you have.
